Sunflower Philosophy.

When there is nothing else offering people roast corn.

There is no doubt at all here—we repeat—sunflower makes you ready.

When a woman has nerve she has more of it than three-fourths of every man.

Some philosophers write such long letters that only their correspondents read them.

A grafter has no respect whatever for people who work—their respect only other grafters.

It is possible to start a good many rows without threat of an autograph and referendum.

The old-fashioned man who eats his pie with a knife and drinks his coffee from a saucer is a little too much so.

When so we men run for office the first thing they think about is to start in about the very thing which is to defeat them.

What philosophy of men get a helpmate is called?

Of all the various persons of human is the most common the woman who is the most common.

If you are careless and mean is more to get you into trouble. Some day you are liable to regret something of bad importance.

Boys are always being scolded at because they don't wash their feet often. Some grown people who wear shoes and stockings should be scolded at for the same reason.

When a man discovers that he doesn't amount to much and never will we have a notion he is as much degraded as the woman who has no other means of getting whiskers.

You may have observed that a girl has more than a man's than a wife has in her hair and that there are other indications that she isn't her close acquaintance very well. At Union (Kan.) Globe.
